

UNION WIN: ROAD TRANSPORT REFORM TABLED IN PARLIAMENT

Thousands of members at hundreds of yards endorsing the fight for transport reform

For years, thousands of TWU members have been campaigning for a system that would mean a safer, fairer and more sustainable industry, through ensuring minimum standards in road transport.

As a direct result of your countless visits to Canberra, convoys, sharing your stories, photos, videos, emails and more, we are now one step closer to real and tangible change.

This afternoon, Workplace Relations Minister Tony Burke tabled legislation in parliament to set minimum standards in road transport

We are closer than ever to having a safer and fairer system for all transport workers. Congratulations to every worker who has brought us to this huge win. Next steps:

- ▶ Over the coming weeks the legislation will be discussed and debated
- ▶ It will then have to be passed through both houses of Parliament—crucially, we will need to have support from cross-benchers (Senators who are not from either major party) to support the legislation. The Federal Government has said it would like to have the legislation through before the end of the year.

Now we must show Federal Parliament why they must back lifesaving transport reform.

JOIN CONVOYS AS PARLIAMENT PREPARES TO VOTE

Our fight isn't over yet.

Thousands of workers are joining the BIGGEST CONVOY FOR REFORM on 25 November, when Parliament will be voting on the legislation.

REGISTER FOR YOUR LOCAL CONVOY

TOGETHER, WE ARE STRONGER.
JOIN NOW FOR A BETTER FUTURE.

www.twu.com.au/join