

Cabin crew taking action for fairer duty hours

Your TWU delegates have formally written to Virgin Australia, putting forward a claim that calls for:

- Maximum 10 hours rostered
- Maximum 12 hours in disruption

It's time for Virgin to listen to workers.

99% of members endorsed returning to reasonable duty hours.

The feedback from cabin crew is overwhelmingly clear. In addition to a major 99% endorsement, a survey from earlier this year revealed that duty hours are the number one issue impacting crew wellbeing, safety, and quality of life.

Next steps

- TWU delegates have requested a meeting with Virgin within the next week.
- We are calling on Virgin to take genuine action on fatigue and safety by reducing duty hours limits.

The message from crew couldn't be clearer: Virgin must step up and put safety first by reducing duty limits now.
